ISLAMIC State claimed responsibility for suicide bomb attacks on Brussels airport and a rush-hour metro train in the Belgian capital yesterday which killed dozens. Police issued a wanted notice for a young man pictured pushing a laden luggage trolley at the airport where two others were suspected of blowing themselves up. The coordinated assault triggered security alerts across Europe and drew global expressions of support, four days after Brussels police had captured the prime surviving suspect in Islamic State's attacks on Paris last November. Belgian security officials made little comment but

U.S. officials said that while the attacks may have been triggered by the arrest of Salah Abdeslam, the level of organisation involved suggested that they had previously been in preparation.
